

If you are contacted about Conference Hotel Registration:

You may be contacted by a company about hotel arrangements for the upcoming HAC 2013 Conference. Please be advised that we have spoken with our hotel partners directly and they have advised us they are not offering the room rates which we have been informed this company is publicizing as available over the dates of our conference. They further advise that they do not have contracts for any wholesale rates over our conference dates.

NO other company has been authorized by HAC to sell rooms during our Convention and no other hotel sales company is affiliated with this organization. We understand this company or other such companies may be emailing or calling members and Associates and exhibitors and instructing them to immediately reserve their room using their service. If you are contacted by a company for the purpose of booking your convention accommodation, we do not recommend that you book through them - instead we recommend you reserve your hotel room directly via our hotel partner links from the conference website.

If you should decide to work with this or any unaffiliated company, please understand you do so at your own risk. HAC will not be able to assist you in any way if problems should arise with your hotel reservation once onsite at the conference.

If you have any questions or concerns about our hotel program or our partners, please do not hesitate to contact HAC.
